71

S.B. No. 731—Durazo et al.

An act relating to criminal records.

Legislative Counsel's Digest of Assembly Amendments

SB 731, as it passed the Senate, extended authorization for a defendant to petition to withdraw their plea of guilty or nolo contendere and enter a plea of not guilty after the completion of their sentence to a defendant who has been convicted of any felony. SB 731, as it passed the Senate, generally made arrest record relief available to a person who has been arrested for a felony and made conviction record relief available for a person convicted of a felony for which they did not complete probation without revocation if certain requirements are met.

The Assembly amendments exclude a defendant convicted of an offense that requires registration as a sex offender from the above-described authorization to petition to withdraw their plea, prohibit a record of a conviction for possession of specified controlled substances that is more than 5 years old and for which relief was granted from being used to deny a teaching or services credential by the Commission on Teacher Credentialing or from being presented to the Committee of Credentials, and require the Department of Justice to provide state summary criminal history information to certain entities including school districts and prohibit the department from disseminating information for a conviction for possession of specified controlled substances if that conviction is more than 5 years old and relief has been granted.

73

S.B. No. 981—Glazer et al.

An act relating to criminal procedure.

Legislative Counsel's Digest of Assembly Amendments

SB 981, as it passed the Senate, created a presumption of factual innocence, for purposes of obtaining compensation for the pecuniary injury sustained through a erroneous conviction and incarceration, if the district attorney or the court has dismissed the charges against the person or the person has been acquitted on retrial. SB 981, as it passed the Senate, permitted that presumption to be overcome by clear and convincing evidence to the contrary, as established by the district attorney within specified time limitations and subject to certain restrictions.

The Assembly amendments instead authorize a person, if the court has granted specified writs of habeas corpus and charges were subsequently dismissed, or if the person was acquitted of the charges on a retrial, to move the court for a finding that they are entitled to compensation and require the court to grant that motion unless the district attorney can establish by clear and convincing evidence that the person committed the acts constituting the offense and is therefore not entitled to compensation.

S.B. No. 988—Hueso.

An act relating to health care facilities.

Legislative Counsel's Digest of Assembly Amendments

SB 988, as it passed the Senate, repealed a requirement that health care facilities permitting patient use of medical cannabis comply with other drug and medication requirements and the requirement that those facilities be subject to enforcement actions by the State Department of Public Health.

The Assembly amendments would require the State Department of Public Health to enforce certain provisions relating to health care facilities permitting patient use of medicinal cannabis, would require a health facility to require a patient or a primary caregiver to be responsible for administering and removing medicinal cannabis, and would require medicinal cannabis to be stored securely at all times.

SB 1120, as it passed the Senate, also required that the California portion of the State Plane Coordinate System of 2022 be known as the “California Coordinate System of 2022.”

The Assembly amendments delete the provision naming the California portion of the State Plane Coordinate System.

76

S.B. No. 1182—Eggman.

An act relating to family law.

Legislative Counsel's Digest of Assembly Amendments

SB 1182, as it passed the Senate, among other provisions, required a court granting custody pursuant to the best interest of the child, if the court finds that the effects of a parent's, legal guardian's, or relative's history of or current mental illness, as defined, are a factor in determining the best interest of the child, to provide the parent, legal guardian, or relative with a list of local resources for mental health treatment, and to state its reasons for the finding and the evidence relied upon in writing or on the record. SB 1182 expressly declared that these provisions did not prohibit the court from considering violence or abuse for that purpose, including violence or abuse as a result of mental illness.

The Assembly amendments delete the requirement for the court to state the evidence relied upon when it finds that the effects of a parent's, legal guardian's, or relative's history of or current mental illness are a factor in determining the best interest of the child. The Assembly amendments also delete the related definition of mental illness and the provisions relating to the court's consideration of violence or abuse, but specify that its provisions do not relieve a court from ensuring that the health, safety, and welfare of the child is the court's primary concern in determining the best interests of children when making any order regarding the physical or legal custody, or visitation, of the child.

The Assembly amendments additionally prohibit an unfulfilled order of restitution or restitution fine from being grounds for finding that a defendant did not fulfill the conditions of probation for the entire period of probation, that a defendant did not comply with, and perform the sentence of, the court, or that a defendant has not lived an honest and upright life and has not obeyed the laws of the land, or being grounds to deny relief to a person whose probation was conditioned on making victim restitution, if the person otherwise qualifies for relief.
